Wade and Ralph Janoske Farm

Red House

Private

The Wade and Ralph Janoske Farm consists of a circa 1925 house, a frame bank barn of the same period, and several frame outbuildings. The house is a two-story, gable-roofed building of vertical plank construction. Its three bay by one bay main block has an enclosed porch on the facade and several additions on the rear. Several of its original 2/2 sash windows have been replaced with 3/1 sash. Asphalt siding covers the building's original weatherboard.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Wade and Ralph Janoske Farm is located on the south side of U.S. Route 50 approximately .8 mile east of its intersection with U.S. Route 219. The farm consists of a dwelling, a frame barn, and several frame outbuildings.

The house, built circa 1925, is a two-story, gable-roofed building of vertical plank construction. Its basic configuration is a three bay by one bay main block with an enclosed porch extending across the full length of the facade (NE elevation). A two story one bay by one bay shed-roofed wing was added to the rear (SW elevation) circa 1930. A one-story, shed-roofed wing was later added to the rear, abutting the first addition. The facade has a symmetrical three bay, center door arrangement with an unfenestrated second floor, center bay. The windows on all elevations are two over two sash, except for the second floor facade and the enclosed porch which have three over one sash. The original weatherboard siding has been covered with tan, brick-patterned asphalt siding. The roof is covered with corrugated metal and has a brick chimney located on the center of the ridge line.

The gable-roofed, bank barn, which is located southeast of the house, has a frame of machine sawn timber that is mortise and tenoned together. It is covered with vertical board siding and rests on a poured concrete foundation. A shed addition covered with German siding extends across the rear of the building (SW elevation) and a concrete block milkhouse abuts the southeast endwall. A metal silo stands at its north corner.

A corn crib, three gable-roofed, frame outbuildings and a board and batten shed stand between the house and barn.

The board and batten shed, thought to have been a store originally, was moved from Route 50 down onto the farm. It is a small one-story, gable-roofed building of vertical plank construction. the gable end facade has a double door entrance with batten doors and a shuttered window. Each of the side elevations has been obscured by a shed addition.

The original barn associated with the property is now a part of site #G-V-A-068.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Mr. Greely Janoske, a previous owner of this farm, reported that his father came to this country from Germany in 1872 and bought this property, which then consisted of 700 acres. He built a small house on the property the same year. The house has since been dismantled and the materials reused to build a garage.

In 1902 Charles Austin opened a small general store on Route 50 near the farm. Workers from the Preston Lumber Company, who lived at a camp on the hill south of this farm, would gather at the store on Saturdays, their day off. After the store went out of business the Janoskes moved the small board and batten structure onto their farm where it has been used as a shop.¹
